

The Senior Class of Webster Central School

WEBSTER, NEW YORK

presents

The 1953 Reveille

WE HONOR

In deepest appreciation and most sincere recognition of their efforts, the Senior Class of 1953 hereby dedicates, this our annual Reveille, to Miss MARIAN NOBLE and Mr. HERBERT HATT.

While our school is in the process of being constructed from without, these two members of our faculty are contributing to the physical development of the students within.

As Mr. Hatt enjoys viewing sports events, both at home and away, he constantly watches for ways of improving and building the teams of Webster Central. Miss Noble, an admirer of plays, music, and theatrical productions also, strives for personality development in the students under her supervision. We, the Class of '53, can truly say that it is they who have taught us the meaning of fair play.

The Builders

*All are architects of fate
Working on these walls of time,
Some with massive deed and great,
Some with ornaments of rhyme.
Nothing useless is, or low,
Each thing in its place is best
And what seems but idle show
Strengthens and supports the rest.
For the structure that we raise
Time is with rapture filled;
Our todays and yesterdays
Are the blocks with which we build.
Truly shape and fashion these;
Leave no yawning gaps between;
Think not because no man sees
Such things will remain unseen.*

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW

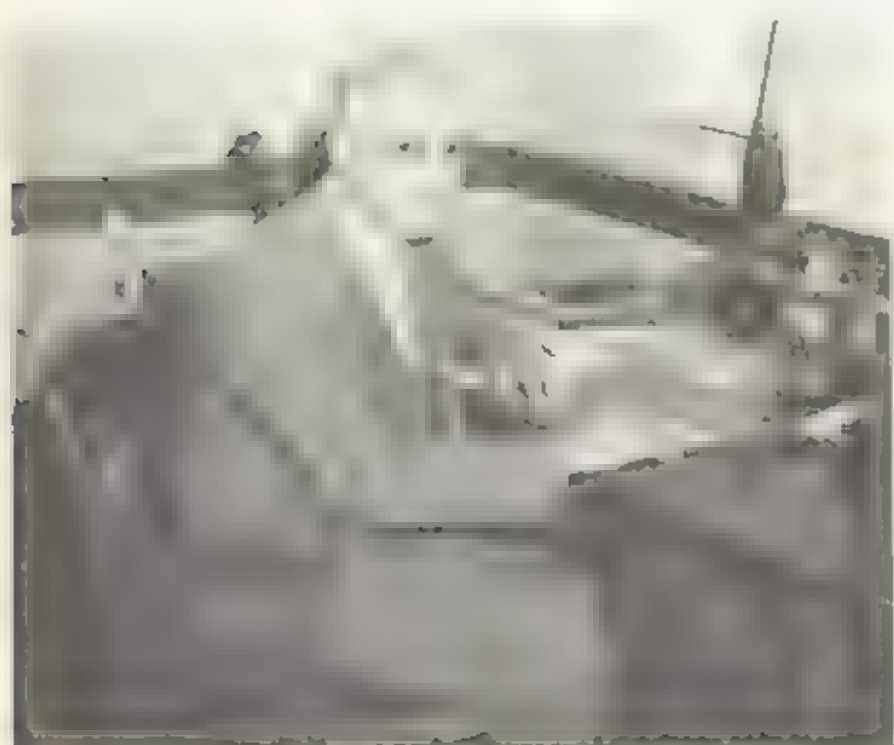

The gradual construction of our new school buildings suggests a parallel that character building too is a process which reaches over and through the years. One must build character by himself for he cannot delegate this responsibility to another. In doing so it cannot be forgotten that courses of action to avoid are quite as important as procedures to follow. What one declines to do builds character just as much as what one chooses to do. As each of you develops his character he thereby affects his family, his school, and his community. Life itself offers nothing more precious than the opportunity to build wisely and well. In these times when "everything nailed down seems to be coming loose" construction of beautiful buildings is not enough, it must be adequately matched by an honesty of purpose and by an integrity of character which is beyond reproach

MR. ROBERT L. THOMAS
Supervising Principal

Principal and Vice-Principal

MR. RALPH W. MARTIN
Vice-Principal

Today much attention is given to the planning and construction of school buildings and home dwellings. This is desirable and necessary. More important, however, than buildings of brick, wood, and mortar are the individuals who inhabit them individuals who are building each day dwellings of mind and body which are theirs for a lifetime. Knowledge and skills in mental and physical achievement are valuable. Of equal or greater significance are the foundations of good character, personality and work habits, coupled with a philosophy of living which finds adventure in high ideals and service to others.

*An honest day's work for an honest day's pay,
Kind and just treatment toward those on the way,
Insight of a world where true spirit holds sway;
These will build hope for our world of today*

Board of Education

After the Webster Central District was formed in 1948, the Board of Education was confronted with the urgent need of enlarging school facilities. An architect was employed directly and requested to submit preliminary plans.

From this starting point to the completion of the first unit, the process has been a long and continuous one. In it has been involved much planning and many important decisions. The project has required frequent conferences with the architect and contractors, with lawyers and bankers, with local and state officials.

Since a large share of financing central school construction is furnished by the State of New York, it has been necessary to secure approval of all building plans from the Division of Buildings and Grounds at Albany. The knowledge of the experts in this department has been received from their collective experience in setting up standards and procedures throughout the state.

In addition to this professional advice, the Board of Education has visited newly built schools at Clyde, Irondequoit, Henrietta, Pittsford and Greece. Opportunity has thus been offered to see different types of flooring, windows, light fixtures, and acoustical treatment.

The members of Webster Central School teaching staff have also contributed generously in making necessary layouts and in choosing the materials to be used in actual construction.

The Board of Education is genuinely appreciative, too, of the public support which residents of the Webster Central District have given to the school building program that has been undertaken in this community. It is designed to provide expanding and improved facilities for the youth of Webster in the hope that they may find it to be truly a place "Where Life is Worth Living."

JOHN O. THORPE,
Member of Board of Education

*Sitting: MRS. I. WRIGHT, MRS. D. ABBOTT.
Standing: MRS. A. JOHNCOX, MRS. A. SCHREIBER.*

Secretaries

Many thanks go to Anne Schreiber, Dorothy Abbott, Anna Johncox, and Irene Wright who hold the very important positions of secretary to the vice-principal, clerk of the board of education, secretary to the principal, and assistant secretary, respectively. We attribute the smooth operation of WCS to their efficiency.

Senior Advisers and Senior Officers

As a construction operation needs competent "bosses" and foremen to supervise the functions of the workmen, so class activities need capable officers to guide hard working students' plans to success. As seniors, the class of 1953, under the able leadership of president, Richard Wood, vice president, Barbara Neva, secretary, Virginia Verhey, treasurer, Helen Spencer, and cabinet representatives, Helen Jones, James Luke, and Barbara Ball, carried on the precedent of a successful and active year.

As freshmen, they had sponsored a gala frosh frolic, "Dreamer's Holiday," and a lively summer picnic. "Mocking Bird Hill" was presented as the sophomore dance with candy-selling at the games being the main money-making scheme.

The junior year, packed full of activities, was made exciting by the change into "span-clean, sparkling" homerooms in the new wing. Class projects started with the "Make Believe" prom, followed by the laugh-packed comedy, "Our Miss Brooks," and were climaxed by an end-of-the-year picnic.

As seniors, the class of 1953 put in an action-packed year, slaving over the magazine campaign, which, under managers Helen Jones and Gerald Pellett, netted a profit of $1,009, selling school souvenirs and pictures to the grades to enlarge the treasury, and composing the senior yearbook. Social highlights of the year included the senior play, "Footloose," and the spring senior ball. Senior advisers, Miss Kathleen Goetten and Mrs. Marian Powell, were a guiding force through the entire year, which ended in a long-to-be-remembered commencement.

Senior Activities

In the fall of 1949, a group of rather green and completely awed freshmen finally found themselves in high school, a fact which, in their minds, left little to be desired. With George Burr acting as president, the class made their debut into the high school limelight by giving the annual frosh frolic which truly made the evening a

'Dreamers Holiday.' Initiative was shown when members sold candy during the noon hours to raise money for the sick treasury. Parties and sleigh rides carried them through the winter in a mood of merriment. Their first glorious year was topped off in June by a day of fun at a picnic in Webster Park, complete with pop, hot ice cream, and ants, and they were left ready and eager, after a restful vacation, to greet the next year in high school with typical enthusiasm.

With the beginning of their sophomore year, the group gradually lost its feeling of inferiority to the two higher classes and began instead, to feel they had and could hold their rightful place in higher education. Comparative peace and quiet reigned with Charles Basch, Carmen Panepinto, Barbara Neva, George Burr, in their elective posts, doing a fine job of keeping the class running smoothly. The biggest event of the year was their soph hop, with the gaily festooned gym done in charming replica of Mockingbird Hill by able imaginations of the committees. Lost from the ranks of the class roll were three boys who went to join those other ranks in various branches of the service.

Senior Activities

In September of 1951, about one hundred juniors took their places in bright new homerooms under the supervision of Miss Marie Stone, Mrs. Grace Thomas, and Miss Ruth Bauch. The first excitement of the year occurred when class rings began to arrive in November and proud students flashed onyxes, rubies, spinels, and gold seals around the halls of WCS. It wasn't long before plans were underway for the Junior prom and, under the direction of James Luke, class president, things ran quite smoothly. On the eve of November 21, approximately sixty couples danced to the music of Carl Dengler's orchestra under bright lights and decorations, transforming the gym into a world of "Make Believe". Spring finally arrived and, with it, tryouts for the Junior play. For several months, the cast of "Our Miss Brooks" spent long hours in the auditorium with their directors, Mrs. Helen Barton and Miss Ruth Bauch, and on the night of May 2, a capacity audience pronounced their efforts a success. The year came to a close in June when members of the class enjoyed a picnic at Webster Park, and on the night of the 23rd, rendered their services as commencement ushers.

The final stage arrived and ninety-three proud and happy seniors settled down for their last year together. Things started off with a bang when the annual magazine campaign required the cooperation of every class member. The annual senior play, "Footloose," presented in November, proved to be a big success, giving proof of the excellent talent present in the class. Through the whole year the Revelle staff spent many hours producing the 1953 edition. In February a new project was launched when senior class members helped with photographs of the grades, proceeds of which went to the senior treasury. Work culminated in fun as the senior ball approached and the class prepared for their long-awaited graduation night on June 19th.

PHILLIP MOSER

In Memoriam

As we step up to meet the bright horizons of the future, we cannot forget Phillip Moser, whose brief friendship lightened the hearts of so many members of our graduating class, back in our freshman year. Phil, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack that first fall, will long be remembered for his interest in sports, farming, and such outdoor activities as camping and hunting. The class of '53 dedicates this spot in their Reveille, this place in their memories, to a wonderful guy.

Servicemen from Fifty-Three

When Herbert Delles entered the navy in July of 1951, little did he realize that he would spend a great amount of his time convalescing. Suffering from two broken legs, Herbert has been in and out of the hospital. At the present time he is doing part-time work in Philadelphia.

Robert Frank, now stationed in England as an airman third class, started his airforce career with an eight-weeks stretch at Sampson on December 28, 1951. He was also stationed at F. E. Warren Base in Wyoming.

HERBERT DELLES

ROBERT FRANK

LAWRENCE HERDENDORF

RAYMOND MINTZ

Former Corporal Lawrence Herdendorf saw Iwo Jima, Tokyo, Korea and Indian Town Gap, Pennsylvania before his discharge from the army in the fall of '52. At present he is employed by Rochester Products.

Four months basic training at Great Lakes Naval Center began Raymond Mintz's service career. Presently located in Japan, Raymond also was stationed at Don Diego, California, and Pearl Harbor.

Richard VanGeyten left on November 9, 1950, commencing his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. He furthered his education in California, Virginia and Arizona, where presently, as a sergeant, Richard is doing construction work with the insulation squad.

February 6, 1952 saw Edward Wallace begin his basic training at Great Lakes Training Center, California. He drew his interest, for he journeyed to Treasure Island, and Ysidro, working for Uncle Sam as a fireman.

RICHARD VANGEYTEN

EDWARD WALLACE

The class of 1954 found themselves in a whirl of activity. After receiving their long-awaited class rings, members made plans for the beautiful fall junior prom, "Outside of Heaven," and the annual junior play in the spring . . . Leading the class in its successful activities were: president, Joan Stitzel; vice-president, David Schetfenger; treasurer, Barbara Dutton, and secretary, Lou Ann Henehan. Cabinet representatives were: Roberta Horton, June Fromholzer, and Franklyn LaForce.

The class of 1955, having within itself resources for leadership, promises to develop into prominent citizenship in senior high school and adult life . . . This year's leaders were president, William McEntosh; vice-president, Leon Burr; secretary, Alice Papapanu; and treasurer, Ronald Hitchcock; who guided the students through an eventful year, highlighted by a mid-winter dance. Holding forth in cabinet for them were Gerald Wright and Elizabeth Gibson

1956

Making their debut as high school members, the class of 1956 elected the following officers: president, Thomas Mallen; vice-president, Sally Jenkins; secretary, Diane DeRoos; treasurer, George Mayo; and cabinet representatives, Karen Fromholzer, and Nils Wagenhals. These officers, along with the class members, contributed to the success of the freshman dance which highlighted their first memorable high school year.

"Who Is It"? and the national elections were the theme of two assemblies held by the eighth grade class of 1952-53. The officers responsible for these class activities were president, David Sweet; vice-president, Sherry Putman; and secretary-treasurer, Mary Huberlie. Representing this class in cabinet was Martin Sullivan. In the fall of 1953 these same classmates will be known as freshmen and will participate in the usual high school activities.

1958

One hundred and eighteen students filled the seventh grade roll to capacity. Leading this large group was president, Frank Van Appledoorn; vice-president, Andrew Kachmaryk; secretary, Elaine Hatt; and treasurer, Barbara Brogan. Diane Young served as representative to cabinet . . . The seventh grade, cooperating with the class of 1957, participated in assembly programs, and, in the month of December, portrayed their abilities in a talent show.

Cabinet . . .

As plumbers, masons, bricklayers, electricians, and carpenters contribute to the progress of a building, likewise members of cabinet, representing the various school organizations and activities, aid in the development of a school . . . Under the guiding hand of Miss Marie Stone, president Sally Dow and vice-president Ronald Wagenhals led cabinet representatives to a successful, work-filled year. Meanwhile, secretaries Audrey Schryer and Barbara Ball were kept busy recording the many activities. Among the highlights of the year's work was the establishment of an information booth, and the selling milk on the third floor during the noon hour. In addition to this, cabinet members, co-operating with the village board, saw to it that the streets were kept clean by placing trash cans along South Avenue and Corning Park. During the Christmas holidays, cabinet representatives initiated a new idea by sponsoring an alumni dance, for the purpose of enabling the graduates of Webster Central to renew their acquaintances with former classmates and teachers.

The Courier . . .

Another successful year of reporting, writing, and editing has been completed by the Courier staff. Overcoming difficulties and meeting deadlines wasn't always easy but the Webster journalists published ten newspacked issues.

Headed by editor-in-chief Virginia Verhey were managing-editors June Fromholzer and Dorothy Wetterman, and associate editors Betty Klaver, Richard Wood, and Jennifer Brennan. This editorial staff, besides covering stories, spent many hours proofreading, rewriting, writing headlines, and arranging articles for publication. Boys' sports were ably reported by Robert Wood and John Ernst, while Cheryl Burley covered girls' intramurals . . . Besides including the usual class and club activity stories, the 1952-53 Courier had various features. An addition this year was David Howe's musical column entitled From Bach to Bloch. Part of the editorial page was often devoted to either cabinet affairs or to rooters' club, promoting better student government and school spirit . . . Although hard work and co-operation were the watch-words of the staff, they would have been lost without the expert advice of Miss Kathleen Goetten.

Sportsmanship Brotherhood

With the exciting "tapping" ceremony in November, sportsmanship brotherhood started the year of 1952-53 with the induction of ten juniors. The new members were welcomed into the organization at a luncheon graciously prepared and served by the home economics club. At the end of basketball season a sports mixer was sponsored by the brotherhood, honoring both the football and the basketball teams. As usual, the biggest event on the club's calendar was the awards banquet in the spring. At this time athletes received their awards and other contributors to school life at WCS were given recognition . . . Officers were Gerald Hayship, president; Richard Barker, vice-president; Barbara Neva, secretary-treasurer, Patricia Nagle and Vance Mosher, checking chairmen. Many thanks go to Miss Ruth Phelps, faculty adviser of sportsmanship brotherhood, for a most successful year.

Library club girls of 1952-53, under the leadership of Miss Winifred Genung and president Helen Jones, have certainly enjoyed a "Record Year." Passing the library fifth period on Mondays one could easily have seen the girls attentively listening to records on drama, speech, novels, poetry, and music . . . Social events such as the traditional mothers and daughters' tea, the Halloween party, the Christmas party, and highlighting the year's activities, the customary house party, kept all the members working. In addition to this, each girl contributed one period of every week to aid in the smooth management of the junior and senior libraries . . . It can certainly be said that the library club fulfills its four-fold purpose by contributing to the mental, moral, spiritual, and physical development of its members.

Junior Play

"The Wild and Woolly West" moved to Webster in May, when a capacity audience was delighted by the junior class presentation of this blood and thunder, western "meller drammer." The plot of this three-act play by Paul Loomis centered around the villainous efforts of Effingham Lethingwell who beguiled Althea Quinn (heiress to the Bar None Ranch), and at the same time attempted to capture the heart of sweet and innocent Rosemary Lane (a New England school "marm"). Gladwyn Throckmorton, the handsome and manly hero, came to save the damsel in distress (Rosemary) and, supported by the rest of the unique cast, (Silver Bell, Thalia Snead, Eagle Anne, Bruce Shale, and others) helped to unweave the intricate and fascinating plot. Complete with Indian raids and arsenic, this performance portrayed the excellent talents of all those who dwelled in "Ruckus County."

Senior Play

A sparkling, family-type comedy was presented on November 21 by the senior class. Footloose, by Charles Q. Burdette, involved the predicaments of the four Early children, Bob, Mary, Hope, and Dick, while their parents were away from home on a world cruise . . . Contributing to the fascinating plot was the indecision of Mary's two boy-friends, who were great contrasts in character, the arrival of Dick's new bride, Jenny, and the innocent "schemes" of Bob's friend, Buzz . . . Long remembered will be Bob's riotous troubles with the ironing board, Mrs. Forester, the nasty-dispositioned neighbor, and Delphie, the Early family's maid with the constant cold . . . Directors Mrs. Marian Powell and Miss Alice Quinn, who supervised the stage setting, were aided by Betty Klaver and Ellen Sandberg. Also furthering the tremendous success of Footloose were the various committees taking care of properties, costumes, lighting, tickets, and ushering.

The old adage goes, "Too many cooks spoil the broth." However, this was not the case when the home economics girls of Webster Central served delicious dinners to new members at their fall initiation banquet, to the aggies at their gala Christmas party, and finally, as a real test of their skill, to their mothers at the annual mothers and daughters' banquet.

Successfully guiding the girls in the year's activities, was Mrs. Helen Barton with the aid of president, Jeanne Hibner; vice-president, Angela Panepinto; secretary, Marie Marini; treasurer, Ellen Sandberg; and social chairman, Jacquelyn Crane.

Meetings were held every Wednesday, at which members planned a rummage sale as a money-making project, and social events, among which was a Halloween party.

Safety Patrol

A new system for the safety patrol organization was worked out by the teachers of WCS. Acting as advisers for the new patrol are teachers Rudolph Degen, James Daly, and Boyd Campbell.

The elected officers of this year's safety patrol are Alfred Rolland, president; William Luke, lieutenant; Ronald Maeder, cabinet representative; and Nancy Burch, who holds the position of secretary-treasurer. Members of safety-patrol have been helping Miss Noble, grade school teachers, and bus drivers by supervising playground groups, corridors, and bus loading.

After one year of active participation members will receive a certificate; after two years, a silver pin; and after the third year, a letter.

LATIN

With the annual feast in Roman style as their major event, the Romans spent an active year. At the spring banquet faculty members and Ciceroites were honored. The food was served and eaten in the Roman manner. Other events of the year included initiation of new members in the autumn and a Christmas party . . . Consuls Shirely Klem and June Hellenschmidt headed the list of Latin club officers with the advice of dictator Marie Stone

Under the leadership of president, George Burr, the varsity club again undertook the responsibility of helping the teachers keep order in the halls. With the co-operation of vice-president, Don Keim, secretary, Charles Basch, and treasurer, Gerald Hayship, the club had a most successful year. As an added task, club members decided to try to establish a system in WCS whereby athletes can rent their needed equipment.

Girls' Chorus

Practicing several times weekly and performing in the annual Christmas and spring concerts, Webster's five vocal organizations lent a melodic air to the halls of WSC. As president, Richard Wood headed boys' chorus, and was assisted by Robert Wirtmer, secretary, and Day Gibson, librarian. Ellen Sandberg presided over girls' chorus, aided by Barbara Neva, secretary, and Betty Gibson, librarian. Highlighting the Christmas with beautiful renditions of "Silent Night," "Come All Ye Faithful," and "Three Kings," mixed chorus, boys' octet, and girls' sextet delighted a capacity audience . . . Girls' sextet contributed to the success of Webster night at the Barn by singing "Oh, Dear, What Can The Matter Be"?

Senior Cheerleaders

Six purple skirts twirled round and round as the energetic senior cheerleaders spurred their team to victory, while the Webster spectators joined in traditional yells and such new ones as "Fight for Fame" and "We've Got a Team." Sally Dow, captain of the squad, and Miss Joyce Maunder, their adviser, guided the girls in the supervision of rooters' club.

This club consists of a group of students organized for the purpose of bolstering school spirit by providing transportation and selling tickets for home and away games. The task was doubled this year, because of the fact that home basketball games had to be played at Penfield and Pittsford. After spending two years leading cheers and encouraging team spirit, these girls have certainly contributed to the fair play of the school.

Jay Vee Cheerleaders

New faces were seen on the field and in the gym this year, as the jay vee cheerleaders lifted the spirits of the Webster teams. As captain, Gwendolyn Baker led the squad composed of Joan Stritzel, Virginia Case, Karen Dill, Barbara Tygert, Joan Hase and Monica Maier. These girls could be seen in the halls and auditorium of WCS under the watchful eye of Miss Marian Noble, revising the old cheers and originating new ones, like "We're from Webster" and "Your Team is in a Spot." Co-operating with the senior squad, the jay vees did their part in managing rooters' club. Having finished one year successfully, the girls are looking forward to the fall of 1953 when they will be known as varsity cheerleaders.

1952 was, as football coach Mr. Oscar Cochi, put it, "a building year for Webster Central." To begin with, there were only six letter men left from last year's championship team, and only four of these men had seen much active duty. Added to this tremendous handicap, was the fact that Webster fielded one of the lightest teams in the league.

You might say the season started off with a bang, with Webster on the receiving end when Clyde upset the Ridgemen, 26-0. After receiving this belting, the Webster team gathered courage and determination and proceeded to trample Brockport in their first conference game.

This win added to the boy's enthusiasm and they went on to down Irondequoit in the next game. What happened in the next few games is a mystery, but it seems that Webster ran into a streak of bad breaks and lost the next four. In the next game with Brighton, Webster's team seemed to rally its forces and tied the score at 19-19.

Varsity

VARSITY

The Webster Central basketball team started the season off with a bang. Under the captains Charles Basch and George Burr, the boys went undefeated until Brighton and East Rochester managed to hold them down. In the second half the team couldn't make headway, and ended up fighting it out with Spencerport for bottom team honors.

Basketball

JUNIOR VARSITY

Our junior varsity basketball team had a season which was as equally as successful as the varsity, but they continued to win games in the second half. The boys were all thrilled when they defeated Brighton's J. V.'s and broke a thirty-seven game winning streak.

Baseball

Spurred on by the "big-bats" of George Burr, Charles Basch, Louis Levane, and the terrific pitching of Robert Rauber, the WCS team really chalked up a sensational baseball year. Not content with a Monroe County record of 22 wins in a row, the Ridgemen marched on to another undefeated season, winning Webster's fourth successive baseball championship. In this same "slam-bang" season, Webster set the second highest record in the entire Empire State, 36 undefeated games. A trophy, in baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, was inscribed with the names and statistics of Webster's most memorable baseball year, and will preserve in bronze this victorious 1952 season.

It would be a wonderful thing if the Webster team, under the coaching of Mr. Herbert Hatt, could continue with this outstanding record. Even with the loss of all-county men, Levane, Rauber, and Mason, the Webster baseball fans have hopes built on the pitching of Marvin Silco, and the support of George Burr, Charles Basch, and the other members of a now famous team.

To increase the interest taken in volleyball this year, Mr. Hatt hit upon the idea of holding a tournament among the boys' gym classes. For three periods the teams in each class battled to see who would emerge as class champions. These championship teams were scheduled to meet in a playoff after school and this second elimination contest was to decide the intramural championship. After watching all these players in action, Mr. Hatt was in a position to know whom to pick as members of an all star team to represent Webster Central in a county volleyball contest. This team will play other schools like Fairport, East Rochester, and Irondequoit in a tournament which will decide the county championship for volleyball.

Eight Grade Basketball

The eighth graders of Webster are doing their part to keep our school respected in basketball circles. These boys, under the coaching of Mr. Herbert Hatt, have defeated the eighth grade teams of Fairport, Ontario and even East Rochester. This supervised playing provides the boys with good experience which will lead to better teams of the future for both the varsity and the junior varsity.

Tennis

With the nimble tandem of Gerald Hayslip and James Luke, first singles player Gerald Pellet, and able second singles hopefuls Robert Wood and Richard Marchner, WCS courtmen eve the Monroe County championship with calculated confidence in 1953 tennis finals.

Girls' Hockey

Decked out in gym suits and shin guards, and wielding their hockey sticks, the bravest of girls faced the autumn elements to learn and play this exciting but treacherous game. A playday at the Harley School on October 25 sparked the 1952 season. There WCS was honored to have Betty Klaver chosen right fullback for an all-star team of the Finger Lakes field hockey association. This same day, the hockey girls rolled up an average score; one game won, one tied, and one lost.

Girls' Archery

Striving for improvement, an enthusiastic group of bowmen could be seen once a week on the WCS athletic field. Evidence of good marksmanship was the arrow-battered target, which displayed many, many bull's-eyes. Beginners learned the archery fundamentals, while full-fledged "Robinhoods" engaged in the perfection-making practice . . . Winner of the archery tournament of fall 1952 was Kay Hartman, a sophomore. The winner keeps the cup until the next tournament; if a girl wins twice in succession, her name is permanently engraved upon the trophy.

Sitting: B. Danby, A. Papapanu, C. Roberts. Standing: M. L. Lasher, Miss J. Maunder, Miss M. Noble, C. Burley

Leaders' Club

"I pledge on my honor to uphold the standards set by the leaders' club, to endeavor to set an example in appearance, and to maintain sound mental and physical health." This promise was fulfilled by all leaders' club girls as they carried forth the organization's aims and purposes through the year.

Performing their numerous duties, including assisting Miss Marian Noble and Miss Joyce Maunder and keeping attendance in gym classes, refereeing girls' intramurals, aiding grade pupils in tumbling and apparatus, managing girls' sports, and planning playdays at Webster, members of leaders' club have again concluded a successful year.

First Row: S. Bassage, A. Suhr, J. Leone, L. Sweezy, J. Witmer, M. McEhenvy, J. Abrams. Second Row: D. Burkiewicz, J. Brennan, A. Schryer, M. Burr, K. Nagle, A. Papapanu, B. Gibson, C. Sloan. Third Row: D. Basch, K. Holtz, L. McKellar, B. Danby, N. Fitton, D. DeRoos, V. Stritzel

First Row: D. Walker, J. Hibner, H. Jones. Second Row: B. Tygert, A. Bruinsma, H. Danby, A. Scruble. Third Row: D. Basch, G. Baker, R. Horton, B. Schoff, J. Bortle, N. Brewer

Assistant Leaders' Club

Awaiting admission to leaders' club, these girls have dutifully carried out their chores throughout the year. Earning ten award points for their cooperation and helpfulness in class work and in intramurals, they had many jobs to do in assisting the physical education department. In gym class, assistant leaders were responsible for care of equipment and supervision of the locker room. They also refereed, scored, and acted as timekeepers for intramural games.

Girls' Baseball

"Pitch, hit, run, throw, out" this was the action witnessed on the athletic field as an energetic group of high school girls played the "sport of the nation," baseball. Techniques of the sport were learned in classes, but the actual games, umpired by members of leaders' club, provided thrilling and sometimes amusing activity for many girls during spring afternoons. The championship teams were rightfully proud of their accomplishments.

First Row: C. Crump, S. Dow, D. Wetterman, A. Suhr, M. Maier, C. Roberts. Second Row: M. J. Hurysz, C. Monje, V. Lynch, V. Verhey, D. McElheny, C. Hill, B. Ball, C. Burley. Third Row: B. Neva, P. Nagle, J. Vanderwalker, K. Dill, S. Klem, A. Schryer, E. Sandberg.

First Row: B. Danby, S. Eaton. Second Row: J. Brano, A. Planken, L. Sweezey, H. Spencer, P. Pellett, C. Critz, D. Walker. Third Row: R. DeVoy, J. Stenglein, S. Jenkins, B. Gnage, E. Sandberg, J. Witmer, M. McIntyre, B. Gibson, M. McElheny, J. Scott.

Soccer

Almost until Thanksgiving, girls could be seen on the athletic field playing their favorite game, soccer. Vigorous and casualty-packed though the game is, about one hundred participated, forming the junior-senior and the freshman-sophomore leagues. Soccer enthusiasts braved the blazing sun of late September and the chill winds of early November . . . In the junior-senior league, Sally Dow's team gained twenty points by capturing first place, and Dolores Butkiewicz's team ran a close second.

Tennis

This fall, Webster's two tennis courts, were given a workout by 28 girls competing for tennis tournament championships. Because of bad weather, play-offs of contests, topped by Elaine Bound, Elizabeth Gibson, Marcia White, and Helen Spencer, were delayed until spring. Doubles competition ended last fall with Patricia Pellet and Linda Sweezey winning the scholarships publications pins for intramural tennis . . . Tennis activities will be resumed on four courts this year in connection with the expansion of the playground.

Basketball

"Center, rover, forward, guard"—these eager female hoopsters spent much of their time becoming proficient in the art of tossing that ever elusive basketball through the webs. Despite the late hours of scheduled games, a large number of high school girls participated, and champions of the leagues deserve credit for their hard work. Several members of these teams were honored with positions on their respective class teams which compete annually for the basketball trophy.

Volleyball

Over the net and back again the ball bounded as girls from all four high school classes competed in two volleyball leagues. Because of crowded schedules in the gym, games sometimes couldn't start until 3:15, causing late games to last until nearly 5:00. However, volleyball enthusiasts remained loyal to their sport, and they finished the season with the leading teams receiving their honors.

Sally Dow leaves her pep, on and off the gym floor, to the Kellogg Company.
Diane Evers leaves her diamond to future old maids.
Jack Evershed leaves the seat next to the driver's in his car for P. T.
Bea Gnage leaves her delicate movements to Bev Krompart.
Terry Gnage leaves his manly build to Dick Baker.
Gene Granate leaves his manners to Emily Post.
Gerry Hayship leaves his piccolo for future football players.
June Hellenschmidt leaves point after point on the girls' basketball score.
Jerry Henehan leaves his walk to lovers of the wild West.
Don Herman leaves "all" of his cars to down-and-out used car dealers.
Jeanne Hibner leaves her needles and thread to Angie Panepento.
Carol Hill leaves her love for "the mountains" to hunters and trappers.
Glenn Housel leaves his long legs to Ron Pellett.
Dave Howe leaves his manner, thoughts, and face to Frankenstein's monster.
Russ Howie leaves his love for school to Louie Maltzahn.
Mary Jane Hurysz leaves her dimples to Jenny Brennan.
Christa Jahn leaves Webster as a friend to all.
Helen Jones leaves her "hanky" when she goes to college.
George Kimmel leaves his expressions of a ma back to students of Shakespeare.
Dick King wills his financial resources to other broke fellows.
Betty Klaver leaves her "hockey" ability to Bob Holtz.
Shirley Klem leaves her strict diet to Marvin Silco.
Chris LaDelpha leaves his car to Dick Marchner.
Judy Leone leaves her Woodbury complexion to Camay.
Jimmy Luke leaves his falling girls at Tink's. (not the foot salon.)
Sharon Lynch leaves her medicine to all those who will suffer from reading this.
Bill McCarthy leaves his freckles to all giraffes.
Dot McElheny leaves her patriotism to the Coast Guard.
Marilyn McIntyre bequeaths her acting ability to Ethel Barrymore.
Jerry McFarlin leaves his pinky white knees to Paul White.
Diane McVea leaves her friendly smile to Ann Duffy.
Pete Maslona leaves his suave manners to Gregory Peck.

Betty Mead leaves her sweet disposition to Ginny Case
 Carol Metcalf leaves her soft, low voice to Peter Kasper.
